ABSTRACT

Language and culture have close relationships. Since language is actually one of the elements of a culture, language and culture should be considered as a unity. Furthermore Clyde Kluckhohn in his book entitled Mirror from Man states that each language is a product of a particular culture and it reflects the culture of the people and their view of the world. Moreover, there is an interdependence between language and culture; since in one culture there must be a certain language. Therefore, language and culture cannot be separated one from the other.

Since language itself is closely related with culture, the students who learn a foreign language should know about its culture. In this case the students who learn English as a foreign language should understand about its culture. At least they should know its culture.

At the English Department of Widya Mandal Catholic University, culture is introduced little by little since the first semester through the material of Integrated Course (IC) namely Breakthrough by Jack C.Richard and M.N.Long as the material which consists of some cultural items. Those cultural items are implicitly stated in part of the speaking section, namely ways to say it and pair up and practice. The students should understand those cultural items. In fact, it is not easy to understand most of the cultural items inside because there are so many expressions to say something which cannot be understood clearly by the students.

Based on the reason above, the writer tries to analyze some cultural items found in Breakthrough book one, two and three. Her study aims at interpreting and explaining the cultural items of American people. It is also aimed at mentioning the differences and similarities between American and Indonesian culture found in those books. Through this study, the writer hopes that this thesis gives some contributions concerning the cultural items found in Breakthrough book one, two and three to the students of the English Department of the Faculty of Teacher Training and Education, Widya Mandal Catholic University Surabaya.

In this study the writer limits her study to the conversation sections with the heading ways to say it and pair up and practice. She chooses both sections because she analyzes cultural items found in the speaking section. She does not discuss writing or reading sections.

In carrying out this study, the writer takes three theories namely the language and culture, culture, and the function of language. Furthermore, for the research methodology, she uses content analysis. It is used to analyze particular data, to evaluate its value, appropriateness and accuracy. The writer follows four steps in using this research design. First, she takes some theories about culture, then she takes samples of speaking sections in Breakthrough. She categorizes those ones according to the theories in chapter II. After she unites the same categories into one group, she makes the data analysis from the result. Then she infers the data analysis, at last she concludes the result and asks a culture consultant or a native speaker to check the results.

After analyzing the data, the writer finds the result that there are some cultural items found in Breakthrough. She also gives the possible meanings of each cultural item based on the categories she made in chapter III. While analyzing the possible meanings of each cultural item, she found that there are also some differences between American and Indonesian culture. She discusses these items in chapter IV.

Since this study does not analyze all the cultural items in Breakthrough book 1 to 3, the writer suggests that this research will be continued by other students who are interested in culture to study the parts that have not been studied yet. She hopes they would like to develop this research as much as possible in order to give more contributions concerning the cultural items found in Breakthrough to the students of Integrated Course at English Department of the Faculty of Teacher Training and Education, Widya Mandala Catholic University Surabaya.
